TO

C.S. Balasundaram Iyer Esquire B.A.,

The Chief Secretary to the Government of His Highness

the Maharaja of Mysore.

SIR,

I have the honor to forward herewith a copy of a note on the Kalla Kormars of the Kadur and Hassan Districts, prepared by the Superintendent of Police, Railways and C.I.D. It contains information regarding history, strength, distribution, and Criminality of these gangs.

2. There are 419 male persons in both Districts of whom 57 have 101 convictions and 171 are juveniles of and above the age of 7 years, who are also reported to be used by their elders in the commission of crime. There are also instances where three women of this class have been convicted of thefts in 4 cases. The number of convictions shown above cannot be the only proof of the criminality of these classes, as they are adepts in the commission of House-Breaking and thefts by night in which the chances of detection are few, and as a large number of cases are not reported owing to the apathy of the ignorant masses, the adults have thus been able to escape conviction in a large number of cases; while the tender age of their juvenile delinquents when caught redhanded, enlists the sympathy of the public and prevents them being handed over to justice.

3. Subsequent to the introduction of the Fingerprint System (i.e 1897) these 105 convictions have however been traced to 60 individuals out of which, 101 are mainly for ~~House-breaking~~ and thefts, 13 men of Hassan and 18 of Kadur have joint convictions, and 13 of them have been jointly and individually sent to jail for failing to furnish security for good behavior, most of these people living in both the Districts are related to each other.

4. Having regard to the criminality and inter-relationship of the class, I request that they may be declared to be a criminal tribe under section 3 of the Criminal Tribes Regulation, and that directions may be issued to the District Magistrates of Hassan and Kadur to register the members of the tribe found in their jurisdictions.

5. As they do not move about like Kapemaries or Gantichors and as they are not related to any foreign gang, I would recommend them to be brought under the operations of Section 10 (a) & (b) of the Criminal Tribes Regulation, whereby each registered member will have to report himself at fixed intervals and to notify his residence, change of residence or absence from residence.

6. I append hereto draft notification under section 3, 4, and 10 (a) and (b).

Note by the Superintendent of Police, Railways and C.I.D. in Mysore on Kalla Kormars of Hassan and Madur District.

Thurston's Castes & Tribes of Southern India. Vol. 3 page 442.

As per note by M.R.Ry. Rao Bahadur M. Rangachariar M.A. Professor of Sanskrit and comparative Philology Presidency College, Madras, dated 7th May 1908, on Mr. F. Fawcett's report on Kormars as Deputy Inspector General of Police, C.I.D. & Railways, Madras.

The Kormars are declared to be a branch of the great Korava Tribe of Southern India by the marginally noted authorities, and have the reputation of being hereditary thieves. They were from time immemorial, of a nomadic character, living in jungles, and making periodical expeditions to eke out their livelihood by means of crime. They are robbers and house breakers like Sansis, Baurias, etc., of Northern India. The time and circumstances under which this tribe acquired criminal propensities, cannot definitely be ascertained. Tradition lays down that they are known as hardened criminals which shows that they have followed criminality as a profession for centuries, and that their offspring are nurtured as such. They are scattered all over the state, but the present report deals only with members of this class living in the Districts of Hassan and Madur, owing to inter-relationship and joint criminality.

2. There are four tribal divisions viz. Navadi, Satpadi, Kanpadi and Mendragutti amongst them, which also exist amongst Kormars of the Tamil Districts, Korchars of the Telugu country and Kykadies of the Hyderabad State and Bombay Presidency, as described in para 7 of page 2 of Papa Rao Naidu's book II in Criminal Tribes of Southern India, thus indicating that they are of the same origin. They have at present given up their nomadic life, and have settled down in villages. Yet, they have, for one reason or other taken to thieving with or without violence either from love of adventure, or as a lucrative profession. They are Hindus in religion and speak the languages current in the locality in which they are living. Their home language is a slang which is an admixture of Tamil, Telugu, and Kanarese, (vide N.B. on page 17 of Papa Rao Saidu's book II). They generally worship the deities Venkataramanaswami and Hanuman. They are highly superstitious, and are constantly on the look/out for good omens, especially before they set out on an excursion of house-breaking. If any bad omens are observed, the intended journey is not undertaken, lest some misfortune may befall them. The avowed occupation of every Kormar is generally thieving by house-breaking as they have become adepts in that line of crime, owing to the nature of its secrecy; and the risks involved in the commission of offences attended with violence. They call house breaking a "noiseless work" in their slang.

3. There are one hundred families in Hassan District, residing in 47 villages, with a population of 655 people; and 88 families in Kadur District distributed in 27 villages with 456 people. Talukwar village list of each District is herewith attached. There are 419 male adults in both Districts, which includes all those who are of and above the age of 7 as enquiries show that at that age these juveniles are used by the adult members as accomplices in crime with a view to train them in the profession. The tender age of these delinquents operates as a safeguard to them, as it restrains the public from proceeding against them, or handing them over to justice on the score of their tender age, and who, on their own responsibility, administer slight corporal punishment to these young thieves, so that statistics of conviction are difficult to be declared.

4. These families are connected with each other by intermarriages and association in crime. They are also related to the kormars of adjoining Districts. They dress like ordinary villagers while living amongst them, and pose as peaceful inhabitants ~~owning~~ some lands, cattle and other adjuncts relating to agriculture. Yet their criminal propensities have not died away. They keep the villagers in awe and collect vary or blackmail from them. Every one is afraid to divulge the real mode of their livelihood lest they be visited with their vengeance. The booty is disposed of through the influential receivers of the village and if they have reason to suspect that they have not been dealt with fairly in such transactions, they ruin them by inveigling them in other shady transactions, and dupe them sooner or later.

Justification for the application of the Criminal Tribes Act.

5. Statements A to D attached show the individual conviction of each member, their joint conviction; the several courts in which they were convicted and their economic condition respectively. It will be seen that 57 men and 3 women have had 105 convictions in most of the courts of the state. 3 women have 4 convictions for ordinary theft and men have 101 convictions mainly for house breaking and theft. Thirteen men of Hassan and 18 of Nadur have joint convictions in 7 courts of the State. These convictions are subsequent to 1927; and conviction prior to that year are not traceable as the system of the Finger Prints had not been introduced. Thirteen of those who have convictions, have also been lodged in jail under security sections of the Criminal Procedure Code for bad livelihood.

6. Their ostensible means of livelihood as stated by them is, cooly, agriculture, music mat and basket making, swine herding, and they call themselves as Kukke Kormars, Valgada Kormars and Mandi Kormars. This is only a professional distinction which ~~is~~ in no way affects the tribal division or intermarriages amongst ~~by~~ them. Their ownership of land is a mere cloak and plea for protecting themselves from the operations of the security sections when they are found lurking in other taluks.

7. Their criminality is much more formidable than what is brought home by means of judicial convictions as it is only in a fraction of cases their guilt is established. Many of the cases are reported as undetected while a large number of them are not brought to the notice of the Police. Many of the hardened criminals have always managed to escape and they remain out of view for years together. Although they have permanently settled and possess lands and houses, many of them have more than 2 convictions each. From the information available, they appear to have confined their depredations to the Mysore Territory, as no foreign convictions have been traced to them. No foreign relationship is traced to any one Kormar of these Districts under report.

8. There are thus sufficient grounds to declare them as criminal tribes under section 3 of the Criminal Tribes Act and to order their registration under section 4. They are not itinerant as Kapemaries or Gantichors. At present it does not appear to be necessary to restrict their movements under section 12. It is sufficient, if they are brought under the operations of section 10 Criminal Tribes Act to notify their residence and to report themselves at
